WE NOMINATE

Willard Harry Allen, the State's 57-year old Secretary of Agriculture and senior member of Governor Driscoll's cabinet, under whose leadership New Jersey's 26,000-plus farmers are currently producing the highest income per farm acre in America. For the past 12 years this self-effacing Princetonian, recognized last month by the Advertising Club of New Jersey as the State's "outstanding citizen for the year 1949," has been concerned with the whole range of agricultural activities in the East and has succeeded in making New Jersey more farm-conscious than it has been at any time since it was first called "The Garden State."

The unanimous choice of farm organizations when elevated to the secretaryship in 1938 and active in the field of agriculture for nearly four decades, Allen is anything but a desk-bound career administrator. Feeling that county agents, vocational teachers and Rutgers' College of Agriculture are best equipped to cope with production problems, Allen looks upon himself as a "backer-upper" for the farmer and specializes in such extras as promoting New Jersey farm products in "new markets" and serving as ambassador-at-large in explaining agriculture's needs and worries to industry and to the consuming public.

Allen's knowledge of New Jersey is phenomenal and State House observers maintain that "it is difficult to find a farmer in the State who doesn't know Bill and know him well." As a bachelor, he feels that time and endurance are the only factors which limit his activities. One night it might be a fruit and vegetable meeting, the next a potato marketing group and the next a gathering of 4-H Club members, hundreds of whom he works with as secretary-treasurer of the Junior Breeders Fund.

A graduate of the agricultural college in his native Connecticut, and decorated as an infantry sergeant in World War I, Allen was called to New Jersey in 1921 as an expert in poultry husbandry, a ballooning New Jersey industry now marketing more than $106,000,000 worth of products annually. Before assuming his present position, he taught at the State University, directed research for a DuPont subsidiary and promoted agriculture as an officer and long-thinking member of a dozen different governmental and professional organizations, ranging from the American Agriculturist Association to the Rural Electrification Council.

For insisting that New Jersey's best interests are the only elements to be considered in the evolution of State policy; for encouraging efficiency and providing continuity in administering a key industry; for minimizing the scope of his own accomplishments while seeking to recognize and reward others; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

The Underfed fire is best!

Unless your furnace fire is underfed, you're not getting all the heat from the coal. You're wasting fuel, wasting money, denying yourself the heating comfort you've paid for.

The Electric Furnace-Man automatically feeds the coal s-l-o-w-l-y into the burner from beneath. A fan feeds it just the right amount of air, and it is completely burned with an even, intense heat.

You not only get maximum heating comfort from the coal, but you save by burning low-priced Anthracite — the rice size. Fuel costs are cut almost in half. See the Electric Furnace-Man at work in our showroom — today!

Formula for '50. War news from Korea has temporarily depleted the entire sugar stocks in some stores, while one automobile dealer reports that he has sold more tires and tubes in the past two weeks than he normally does in a year. Coffee and liquor purchases are on the upswing, too. Princetonians, it seems, are no different from other Americans. If the world is going to explode into atomic warfare, they want to make sure they ride into the last chapter with all the pleasures of life at hand.

Population Puzzle. Throughout the nation, towns and cities disappointed with inability to point to spectacular growth as a result of 1950 census figures assigned to them have been howling for a recount. Cases of mortal wounds to civic pride, of nearby East Overshoe passing Chinaman's Gulch by one rung in the race to be the biggest town in the valley were cropping up everywhere.

In Princeton, N. J., no one was greatly concerned over actual growth in comparison to the next community, but a lot of people wanted to know just what population the census-takers had assigned to the town for 1950. This week, the picture was like a jigsaw puzzle, with borough officials frantically hunting for a number of pieces that had seemingly been completely mislaid.

A month ago, the Trenton district office for this area credited Princeton with a total figure of 17,255. Of this number, 11,865 were listed as borough residents, an increase of 4,146 over 1940.

At the time, it was generally assumed that no students enrolled at the University, Choir College or Seminary were listed as residents of the municipality. They had been enumerated here but the belief existed in Princeton that they had been added to the population of their home towns.

A report from the Trenton office that the student population had been added to the borough's figure—in contrast to procedure followed in 1940—confronted the mayor and council with an unanticipated dilemma. If this was so, the municipality's inhabitants had decreased by 82 in the past decade. On the face of it, such a development was ridiculous.

With the Trenton office no longer functioning, the answer lay with federal census officials in Philadelphia. There, Philip Halperin, area administrative assistant, told Town Topics that in 1940 and this year as well, the student population of the community at the college level had been counted as part of the Princeton population.

His statement could not have been calculated to cause greater confusion. If no effort had been made to assign students to their home towns, he had in one brief sentence cut 40 percent from what had always been considered the town's permanent population—those who lived here the year 'round, completely exclusive of students here about eight months of the year for the temporary purpose of furthering their education.

Even while the missing pieces were being sought, it seemed in direct contradiction to many indisputable statistics that the borough's population (exclusive of students) was some 4,700 in 1940 and only 7,600 today. Municipal records, density figures, voters' registration lists, all went against such low totals.

One of the simplest checks might be the best: assistant postmaster Samuel E. Copner estimates in round figures that 4,700 pieces of mail are necessary to reach every address in the borough and township—exclusive of any campus dormitory. When the 200 addresses in the business district are deducted, 4,500 remain, and if this number is multiplied by four — a generally accepted figure for the average American family — the town's population emerges in broad terms as 18,000. A daily check as accurate as mail delivery would hardly seem to lie.

But if census officials should be proved right in their assignment of students to their college towns, one certainty could be seen emerging from the maelstrom of debate: revival this Fall of the quarter-century old argument over the right of students to vote in Princeton.

School Report. Through their representatives on the Borough Board of Education, the people of Princeton got a fact-crammed report Tuesday night on the manner in which the municipality's public schools had operated during 1949-50. There were many reasons substantiating the comment of supervising principal B. Woodhull Davis that "the year just closed has been the finest in our history."

Among them: receipts in excess of anticipated revenue amounting to $12,700, and expenditures which were some $400 below the amount thought necessary when the budget was made up; a cash balance and assets totalling $78,500, nearly $5,000 above the preceding year.

On the subject of the elimination of segregation, accomplished two years ago, Mr. Davis reported that "we are doing a better job for all the children than we did under the previous organization. The work in both the Nassau and Witherspoon Schools is outstanding and the arrangement of grades continues to be a great improvement over the preceding one."

The achievement of seniors taking College Board examinations ranged from 68 percent who were higher (in English) to 100 percent (in Latin) than the median recorded for the nation. In more than 100 colleges and universities, P.H.S. alumni over a five-year period had averaged C or better in 87 percent of their marks. The failure rate of 4.7 percent was far below the national standard, Mr. Davis said.

Enrollment for the past year was 1,810, exactly one pupil higher than the number registered during the preceding year. Elementary facilities are ample for the foreseeable future, he reported, but within a short time expansion of the high school must receive serious consideration. A sharp increase in enrollment in 1953, which will reach a peak five years later, can be anticipated. The pupils will be the record-breaking crop of "war babies" who put in an appearance between the years 1941-45.

Job Open. The borough of Princeton is looking for another policeman, whose appointment to the force September 1 will make the sixth addition to the department in the last five years. An added member is necessary because of the increased duties that will result from the installation of 493 parking meters.

Applicants should register with borough clerk Robert F. Mooney at their first convenience, with the date for the physical, mental and medical exams to be set in the near future. Those eligible must have been borough residents for at least the past two years, must be over 21 and under 29 as of September 1.

It's New to Us

"Yard Boy." Here's another one of those mystifying names which actually makes some sense when you know what it is. J. W. Fiske (from Works), maker of "Yard Boy," calls it the "first successful outdoor back yard incinerator. It is distinctive in appearance, different in principle and has no competition."

The aforementioned principle—the perforated inner flue—is what distinguishes "Yard Boy" from other incinerators and makes it as satisfactory as it is. The patented flue, extending through the entire incinerator and opening at the bottom, feeds air constantly to the fire so that it cannot pack or smother, the flue cannot clog, and nothing is left but fine powdered ash that needs emptying only two or three times yearly. Also because of the flue, you light it at the top, and it burns downward.

"Yard Boy" burns anything burnable, even using rubbish to burn garbage. In addition, it is completely safe—no fire is visible; a spark arrester on the stack prevents flying sparks. What's more, it alone among incinerators is entirely finished with a vitreous porcelain enamel which is fused on at high temperature, and needs neither rusting nor painting.

All in all, "Yard Boy" as far as incinerators can be, is quite exciting. Rosedale Nursery, 262 Alexander Street, will be glad to show "him" off and tell you all about sizes and prices. If you have a back yard and rubbish troubles, it should be worth a trip to Alexander Street to see for yourself.

"Gobbie Gobble" Turkey. This, in a nutshell (or maybe we should say in a cellulose package) is a boneless, roasted, wasteless, easy-to-serve, ready-to-eat turkey. Or rather, it's the better part of him—all gristle, gizzards, hearts, necks, tails and such are removed; only pure turkey meat (60 percent white, 40 percent dark) is used.

"Gobbie Gobble" is a "log" of turkey, about five inches around and 14 inches long, which will not crumble or shred even when sliced paper thin. After the log is sliced, it is then specifically prepared and roasted, sealing in its full flavor and natural juices. Next, at least some of them go into the deep freeze at Rosedale, Inc., where they are buyable as a whole log, by the pound or even by the slice.

"Gobbie Gobble," at $2.50 a pound, is not inexpensive, but there are several reasons why it's cheaper than it sounds. An eight-pound "log" is equivalent in solid turkey meat to about a 25-pound dressed turkey.

From this 25-pounder, about 47 percent would be absolute waste; 18 percent is by-products; 20 percent is lost in roasting and shrinkage. (We quote on the above figures—we are neither that much of a cook nor a statistician.) In addition, you have the cost and trouble of preparation and cooking.

For salads, sandwiches, lunch or dinner dishes (hot or cold), a pre-sliced "Gobbie Gobble," which Rosedale will gladly make available to your specifications, should solve innumerable summer eating problems.

Working with clay was just one of the many projects which 57 young Princeton girls enjoyed during the two-week session of the day camp being conducted on River Road by the Princeton Girl Scout Council. School Starts. Some 200 music students will arrive here this weekend to enroll in the summer school conducted by Dr. John F. Williamson, president of the Westminster Choir College. The enrollment will include professional students as well as those of high school and college age from many parts of the country.

An early feature of the summer session will be a recital Wednesday evening at 8 by Mrs. Mary Krimmel, who will teach organ this summer. In the college chapel, she will play selections from the works of Franck, Clerambault, Huchetude, Bach, Karg-Elert, Daquin and Muette.

Arthur L. Bigelow will follow with a brief carillon recital. He will offer well-known songs and hymns, as well as numbers written especially for the carillon.

Polio Precautions. On page nine of this issue is illustrated information prepared by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It is published to offer some of the basic precautions worth taking against polio.

The scene when that perennial disease strikes is at hand—but there are no indications in mid-July that last year's epidemic which struck in several parts of the nation is to be repeated. While Princeton is unlikely to escape in full, the good news to date is that only a single case has been recorded in 1950, a very mild one that occurred in mid-May.

Anti-Speeding Drive. During the first three weeks of this month, 36 drivers have been fined for speeding by Magistrate Paul R. Chesebro, among them was a 19-year-old Philadelphia girl, still operating on a driver's permit while learning, who admitted traveling 75 miles an hour on Nassau Street between Harrison and Lovers Lane.

Mr. Chesebro, whose accomplishments in office have marked him as one of the town's top public officials, provided these topics this week for speeding convictions in the use of an automobile: "A car driven over a stretch of 295 miles, seeking to maintain a top speed of 65 miles an hour, actually averaged 46 and reached its destination in six hours and 25 minutes," he reported.

"On the second run over the same course, the same car sought to hold a top speed of 50 miles an hour, averaged 43 and completed the trip in six hours and 25 minutes. In addition to risking his life, the driver in making the faster trip used 11 percent more gasoline, 50 percent more oil and placed unnecessary strain on his tires and engine. Just how much are 25 minutes worth?"

Murray Theatre on Campus

ABOUT THE PLAY

When the curtain rises on "Coriolanus" at Murray Theatre Tuesday night, the University Players will be maintaining its reputation for unusual, worthwhile theatre. Although many scholars consider this historical tragedy one of Shakespeare's finest, it is seldom seen on stage, due to various factors, including its political implications, wide scope, length, complicated lighting and fast-changing scenes.

As staged by Robert Chapman, assisted by imaginative set-designer Charles Fehon, this production, through skillful cutting, unit set, and experimental lighting, has been turned into a fast-moving, fluid, exciting show. The opposing political ideologies set forth by Shakespeare in 1610 are fascinating as applied to the 20th century world.

Karl Light, playing the warrior Coriolanus, considers the role in many ways more challenging and interesting than that of Richard II, in which he starred three years ago. The large supporting cast includes many local residents.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Offering the rarely-presented but powerful Shakesperian tragedy, "Coriolanus," the University Players open a promising eight-week season Tuesday evening at 8:30 in Murray Theatre. The drama will be repeated each night through Saturday in the Intime's air-cooled headquarters located on the University campus.

The large cast will be headed by Karl M. Light, whose interpretation of Shakesperian parts in the past three years has earned him no little commendation. Lola D'Anunzio and Nancy Wood, both of Trenton, both of whom have appeared with the Players in the past, will have the principal feminine roles.

Others with sizeable parts include Michael Strater, last year's Intime president; Herbert Strauss, Carl Hanssen and Franklin Reeve, three other Intime veterans; Richard Mathews, president of Mask and Dagger, the acting honor society at the University of California who is East for the Summer; and Richard Kenarney.

The latter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kenarney of River Road, was assigned the part of Coriolanus' son, outlined here last week. He's a student at Princeton Country Day School.

Garrison Ellis, who is active in dramatics at Yale; John Law, Lance Benet and Robert Warren are other Princetonians in the cast. For additional details on the production, see the advertisements at the left.

McCARTER THEATRE

Comparisons being inevitable, it is only natural that the version of "Harvey" currently being staged at the McCarter should be held up against the long run the comedy enjoyed when Frank Fay was frolicking in it on Broadway. It is also inevitable that Mr. Fay's polish should leave the present offering somewhat in the shadows, a situation developing partially from the fact that this is the first year the play has been released for summer stock.

Burgess Meredith, cast in the role of the genial soul whose surplus quantities of barleycorn have given birth to an equally likeable rabbit, appeared unfamiliar with the role. He needed the first act to become persuasive about the wonderful characteristics of his friend, and the result was a pace that remained noticeably slow.

FINALISTS WHO DECIDED MEN'S COMMUNITY TENNIS SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP

Tom Whitin (right) receives congratulations from Victor Payne after winning the men's tennis title Monday afternoon on the Princeton University courts. Whitin, a graduate student in economics who is studying for his Ph.D., lost the opening set but came back to win the long duel, 3-6, 9-7, 6-2.

Pieles Take a Real Loss. Ted Williams' broken elbow had no more impact on the Red Sox and the American League than the loss of Emma Marcolini Embly had on the Pielettes and the girls' softball league this week. Nursing a back ailment, Emma was told by her doctor on Tuesday that she would probably do no more pitching during the rest of the season.

Although the disorder was not caused by her vigorous playing, her doctor explained that the condition was aggravated on the field. For several games she has been bothered with back pains, but her great competitive spirit kept her from complaining. With a good rest, she should recuperate easily.

No one would deny that the petite Emma was head and shoulders the most valuable player in the girls' league. She batted fourth in Manager Bing Dennen's lineup, but it was her brilliant pitching form that made her the center of attraction in the league.

In hurling the Pieles to five straight victories and the first half championship, Emma fanned 59 batters. Without her the Pielettes still had good enough hitting and fielding to make them the loop's top team, but the second half race promised to be much closer.

It was not exactly an auspicious debut in the league for the new QRC squad. More is expected from it after the experience of a few games.

Sofball and Softball. After frustrating the schedule last week, the rain eased up to allow plenty of activity in the men's softball leagues. The Odd Fellows and the Bank Street Tigers took advantage of the sunshine on Monday by playing a make-up game in addition to the regularly-scheduled contest. Fourth-place Odd Fellows took both ends of the double-header, 10-2 and 8-3.

Esposito's A. C. kept breathing down the neck of the Phantoms by edging Jugtown C. C., 4-2, behind the three-hill pitching of Maff Amalfitano on Monday. The Phantoms, meanwhile, were crushing the Eagles, 11-4. In another A League game yesterday, both an improving Royals' nine, 9-4, Pitching Gem. The lusty hitting of Princeton's Twin-M League team was backed by a sparkling mound performance on Monday and the result was an impressive 7-1 victory over Hopewell. It was Chick Davis, youthful fireballer, who treated the loyal fans at Brokaw Field to a three-hit pitching gem.

ation. Manufacturers, or perhaps ad men, seem to be very fond of their pet names which mean very little to the customer! For your enlightenment, "Glodium" is a brand new metal, soft gold in color, which requires only the same care that you give silver, except that, being non-tarnishable, it requires no polishing, only soap and water washing.

Now, when you look at "Glodium," whether used alone or combined with hand-made emerald glass, the more it grows on you. It comes in an un-listable variety of useful objects, ranging from jam jars, cream and sugar sets, salad servers to bread trays, hors d'oeuvre dishes, syrup jugs and bowls.

We liked particularly the articles of emerald glass with delicate and tasteful designs on the "Glodium," and used for mustard and vinegar bottles. Not only is the whole line distinctive for the metal itself, but many of the pieces have unusual and appealing shapes.

Prices are not high, starting at $2.50 and staying well under $10, even for the most impressive objects. "Glodium" is seaworthy, in all its glory, at Zavelle's, Palmer Square.

POLIO PRECAUTIONS

RECOMMENDED BY

THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

AVOID NEW GROUPS

DON'T GET OVERTIRED

DON'T GET CHILLED

KEEP CLEAN

WHEN POLIO IS AROUND, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis recommends these simple precautions: Keep children with their own friends and away from people they have not been with right along. Don't become exhausted through work or hard play. Don't stay too long in cold water or sit around in wet clothes. And always wash hands before eating. Watch for feverishness, sore throat, headache, upset stomach or sore muscles. They may—or may not—mean polio. Call your doctor and then, if help is needed contact the National Foundation Chapter in your area.

Hot Time in Jersey is the hottest time of the year. So far, both the temperature and the rainfall are above average, with higher days ahead, at least insfar as the records over a period of years indicate.

However, 1950 to date has been nothing like 1949. A year ago, in addition to the long-standing drought which beat down everything except the humidity, the temperature during the month topped 90 on 16 separate days. So far this July, 90—and the public—have been conquered but twice.

The New Jersey Poll

CAR OWNERS AND DRIVERS
FAVOR PLAN TO MAIL OUT
N. J. PLATES AND LICENSES

(The New Jersey Poll, prepared by Kenneth Fink, director of the Princeton Research Service, is a weekly feature sponsored by 45 leading daily and weekly newspapers in the state. Its findings are independent and of proven accuracy. Suggestions for future surveys will be welcomed by TOWN TOPICS, which presents results of the poll exclusively in the Princeton area.)

On March 6, a bill was introduced in the state legislature proposing that auto license plates and drivers' licenses be mailed to New Jersey car owners and drivers instead of supplying them through 141 local agencies.

A New Jersey Poll survey just completed on this subject shows that those who favor the idea of buying auto licenses and registration plates through the mail outnumber by a two-to-one margin those opposed to it.

More than three out of every five car owners, auto drivers and New Jersey citizens questioned in today's survey favor the idea of having auto licenses and plates mailed direct to people's homes. Only one in three is opposed to any change in the present system of license distribution.

Chief reason for favoring the proposed change is its convenience. The long waits in line for licenses seem to be a pet peeve of many New Jersey motorists.

Opponents of the mail plan argue mainly that mail distribution of licenses would make it easier for criminals and people with serious physical handicaps to get licenses. That there's nothing wrong with the present system was also advanced by a number of those opposed to changes.

When New Jersey Poll staff reporters put these questions to an accurate cross-section of the New Jersey public:

"A suggestion has been made that auto drivers' licenses and license plates be mailed direct to people's homes instead of the present method of getting them at local agencies. How do you feel about this? Would you favor or oppose a plan under which drivers' licenses and license plates would be mailed direct to people's homes?"

The results were:

	Favor	Oppose	Undecided
Total State	63%	29	8
Car Owners	65%	30	5
Auto Drivers	63%	33	4

The issue of distributing licenses by mail is one that cuts clear across party lines. Republicans, Democrats and independent voters alike agree in wanting drivers' licenses and plates mailed to people's homes.

Here is the party vote:

	Favor	Oppose	Undecided
Rep.	63%	29	8
Dem.	65%	27	8
Ind.	62%	30	8

Noteworthy, too, is that high uniformity of opinion was also found in every other population segment measured in today's survey, with about three out of every five in all city sizes, age groups, occupations and educational levels in favor of the proposed plan.

'YER OUT!' A YOUNG PRINCETONIAN GETS HIS MAN IN THE NATIONAL PASTIME

The scene is at Blairstown, where Princeton University operates its summer camp for 300 boys from a number of Eastern towns and cities. Here Romus Broadway, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Broadway of 10 Birch Avenue, puts the tag on the runner, a lad from New York, while the umpire (who hails from Philadelphia) gives the classic upward motion with thumb. The camp is directed by Howard W. Stepp, University registrar, with undergraduates serving as councilors.

SPORTS IN SHORT

Davis, a newcomer to the Princeton area and a student at Emory and Henry University, fanned seven Hopewell batters and issued only three free passes. He had yielded but two singles, one of the infield variety, until the last inning when the visitors combined a walk and a double to spoil the shut-out.

Tom Brophy's sluggers jumped away to a 4-0 lead in the opening frame. Jim Brown led off with a walk followed by Nick Ross' single. Both advanced on Joe Friel's sacrifice and scored on Manager Brophy's double into the trees in right. Singles by Bob Kehoe and Larry Friel completed the rally.

Jimmy Koplin, Brown and Ross crossed the platter to produce three more runs for the Tigertowners in the sixth. Playing errorless ball, Princeton's ballhawks increased their victory total to 14 against six defeats for the season. They still trailed Belle Mead by three full games since the league leaders blasted Rocky Hill on Monday, 11-5.

After the game, Brophy was stunned to hear that a pitcher believed to be his had just hurled Monmouth Junction to a 1-0 upset win over Hightstown. It was bulked Ted Gebhardt who apparently changed his mind after agreeing to play for Princeton. The former Yankee farm pitcher, who reportedly received $6,000 for signing with the New Yorkers, converts the tail-end Junctioneers into a real obstacle to the league's front-runners.

The individual averages:

	A.B.	H.	Avg.

Ross	35	14	.400
Brown	57	22	.386
Petrone	74	25	.338

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

the support was several notches above normal. Like the hours of which the principal characters partake, "Love" does not suffer from aging; even a few days at the McCarter will add to its smoothness.

Next week (it says here on the publicity sheet), "murder, lynching and prostitution will run rife across the stage of The Princeton Summer Theatre." Heaven rest the shades of Princeton University's blue-nosed Presbyterian founders.

The occasion is "The Respectful Prostitute," the Jean-Paul Satre play—produced successfully last year by the University Players, which has a racial prejudice in a southern town as its theme. Margo (short for Maria Marguerita Guadalupe Bolando y Castillo, her name as a young girl of Mexican birth) will appear in the title role, with John Marrott opposite her.

A one-acter has been billed as the curtain-raiser. It's Noel Coward's "Red Peppers," a glimpse into the lives of two third-rate English vaudeville performers.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Wednesday, July 27 (Thurs. Sat.) is a rare rite of that famous make which proves to be perfect and is accordingly sought by many men in the post-Civil War West. James Stewart loses it to his brother, whom he is hunting for the murder of their father; its owners from there encounter various dramatic episodes which combine to make this a crisply-told, well-photographed western.

Where the Sidewalk Ends (Sunday) solves the problem that arises for Dana Andrews when, as detective in temporary bad standing in the police force, he accidentally kills a man who was another innocently arrested for the crime. Action and dialogue are both markedly uneven in this routine drama. With Gene Tierney.

The Flame and the Arrow (Wednesday) brings to Princeton one of the first showings of this new adventure picture, set in the mountains of ancient Italy. Burt Lancaster is portrayed in a role much akin to that in which the late Douglas Fairbanks starred, a swashbuckling, acrobatic Robin Hood who led the poor to freedom from under the heels of rich oppressors. Warner Brothers have pulled out all the stops in turning out a gaudy extravaganza of blood, thunder and romance.

THE GARDEN

Capture (Fri.-Sat.) records the emotional experiences of an American oilman, Marco, who sets out to kill a payroll bandit and shoots the wrong man. Suicide and another murder are eventually added to his misdeeds against humanity, despite his efforts to set matters right. Confusion in the storytelling and dialogue are handicaps to a film that has both originality and good tempo.

So Proudly We Hail (Mon.-Tues.), although started on its tour as a revival last Winter, may presage an influx of World War II films to keep in tune with the Korean situation. This one, which stars Claudette Colbert, Paulette Goddard and Dennis Lyon, was originally released in June, 1943, to record the heroic story of nurses on the Bataan Peninsula in the Philippines. The Glass Mountain (Wednesday), a British film made in Italy, tells of an English flier, shot down, who is rescued by an Italian girl. While recuperating (and falling in love with her) before returning to his wife, he sets the legend of the Glass Mountain to music. That, in operatic form, and the breath-taking scenic effects of the Italian Alps, are the film's best assets.

Black Hand (Fri.-Sat.) was an Italian secret society which was active as an extortion ring in New York at the turn of the century. Gene Kelly, the dancer playing his first major role, and J. Carroll Naish, hand cast as a sergeant and detective to search out the roots of the gang in Naples and destroy it there and in this country. Strong on action, some of it brutal, but better than average film fare.

Some Sound Advice for MOTHERS

WHEN LITTLE Mary or young Jimmie seem to be ailing, resist that impulse to "shop around" amongst friends and neighbors for home remedies.

The risks are too great! Especially when a child's health is involved. There is only ONE source of safe medical information. That's your family doctor. If it's a "small matter", you'll be happy to have your fears set at rest.

If it's something serious, you'll be mighty thankful you called the doctor in time.
